Summer Break Faculty and Staff Art Show
July 1, 2013

FULL SAIL
UNIVERSITY.

Over Full Sail's 2013 summer break, faculty and staff members had the chance to express their artistic sides at the 5" X 5" @ 5pm Faculty and Staff Art Show. More than 100 employees contributed artwork to the show, and nearly all of the pieces were designed on one or more 5-inch-by-5-inch canvas-covered blocks.

All of the art pieces were for sale, and a few select items were sold via private auction. All proceeds from the art sales benefitted the Full Sail student pantry, which helps provide food for students who are struggling financially. According to event manager Danielle Dawson, the art show generated about $2,600 in sales.

Faculty and staff members used a variety of media to design their miniature works of art, including paint, textiles, 3D sculpture, found objects and photography.

Faculty members from the Music Production program who form the Harlyn Trio played music to entertain the art gawkers and shoppers.

At the entrance, employees collected donations of canned goods and personal hygiene products for the student pantry.

I wanted to create a piece of art that was abstract, but personal to me. So I decided to create my immediate family tree as a scatter plot. Using the ages of parents as the foundation of each person when they were born. (I know, I have a large family.) White represents females, orange are male, and yellow highlights my new tribe: my husband, my son, and myself.

No more bees, no more pollination ... no more men!" In short, the series has developed into a body of work that focuses on life, death, life after death, and how the certainty of death unfolds.

This piece focuses on contrasting elements and concerns a topic (and a question) that most of us are familiar with. Barfing is (generally) not considered a pleasurable experience but the vomit itself is happy, bright, and colorful. The colorless pallor of the subject's face is unlike the rest of the piece entirely but the polished top-hat allows the subject to retain some semblance of classiness. A gel medium was added to acrylic paint and was carefully applied to achieve the dripping effect; again, in spite of the inherent grossness of puke, it feels quite neat to the touch.

Charles Everett (°1952, Miami, United States) is an artist who mainly works with sculpture. By referencing romanticism, grand-guignolesque, and semiotics, Everett creates work through labor-intensive processes which can be seen explicitly as a personal exorcism ritual. His works are often classified as part of the new romantic movement because of the desire for the local in the unfolding globalized... hold on, there's a rat in my office... Ok, I'm back... yadda yadda, because of the desire for the local in the unfolding globalized world. However, this reference is not intentional, as this kind of art is part of the collective memory and so forth. Charles Everett currently lives and works in Powder Springs, FL.

Charles Everett (°1947, Miami, United States) is an artist who mainly works with contemporary strategies. By putting the viewer on the wrong track, Everett tries to increase the dynamic between audience and author by objectifying emotions and investigating the duality that develops through different interpretations. Let's face it - making pancakes from scratch may sound like a great idea but it's not easy, am I right? Too often homemade pancakes turn out gummy, eggy, or just plain - well, plain. In your quest to make the perfect pancake don't forget to create works in which the actual event still has to take place or has just ended: moments evocative of atmosphere and suspense that are not part of a narrative thread. This results in the fact that the artist can easily imagine an own interpretation without being hindered by the historical reality. Charles Everett currently lives and works in Cedar Canyon, FL.

My art focuses on whimsical storytelling. I endeavor to evoke suggestions of a broader world beyond what is seen on the canvas, allowing the viewer to explore the environments and characters further and bringing their own experiences and knowledge to add to the world.

My process involves detailed rendering of values in charcoal on the canvas and focus on strong composition. After the initial rendering, I apply heavy texture, washes and dry brushing to reinforce the painterly qualities of the work, having found the technique and apparent process of the work to be as involving as the subject matter.
